Inmatica and Fibersight are pleased to announce the signature of an agreement that will allow Inmatica to play the role of exclusive Authorized Reseller for the Italian market of the innovative fiber optic sensors conceived and designed by Fibersight with the prestigious collaboration of CERN, Geneva.

The main objective of the agreement is to favor in Italy the development of businesses and new innovative projects associated to the application of the innovative fibers in the most diverse industrial sectors, such as those concerning water worksites, those linked to buildings but also precision agriculture.

The multi-year and significant experience of Inmatica as a System Integrator in the field of I.T. and the established capability of Fibersight to develop new innovative and ground-breaking technologies, constitute in fact an exceptional complementarity, which guarantees the development of successful use cases.

The agreement also foresees the possibility for Fibersight to exploit exclusively on other European and international markets the user licences and the applicative software packages that will be developed by Inmatica for the management of the I.T. services associated with the use of the fibers.

Inmatica and Fibersight express great satisfaction for the achieved exclusive agreement, which will allow for the introduction of new solutions and services of great impact and usefulness for the community and for the Italian socio-industrial system and citizens.
